Sample Questions & Answers

DET Interactive Writing Sample

First Prompt:

Do you think children should be allowed to use mobile phones? Why or why not?

Sample Answer:

Children should be allowed to use mobile phones with proper guidelines and parental supervision. Mobile phones can be valuable tools for education and communication. Access to educational apps allows children to learn new skills and languages and even improve their problem-solving abilities. However, it's crucial to limit their screen time and ensure they're not exposed to inappropriate content. Phones can also help in emergencies, giving parents peace of mind about their children's safety. Therefore, while mobile phones can be beneficial, they should be used responsibly.

Follow Up Question:

What age do you think is appropriate for a child to get their first phone, and why?

Sample Answer:

The appropriate age for a child to get their first phone is around 12 or 13, typically when they start middle school. At this age, children are mature enough to understand the responsibilities that come with using a phone and are likely to start being more independent, such as traveling to and from school alone. A mobile phone can provide both educational resources and safety communication. However, it's important to set rules for phone use to ensure it doesn't interfere with their studies or social development.

DET Interactive Writing Sample

First Prompt:

Describe a place you have visited recently. What made it memorable?

Sample Answer:

Last month, I visited the city of Kyoto in Japan. Known for its serene temples and beautiful gardens, Kyoto offered a peaceful escape from the fast-paced life I'm used to. The highlight of my trip was visiting the Fushimi Inari Shrine, with its thousands of red torii gates lining the trails through the forest. The atmosphere was magical, especially when the light filtered through the trees at sunrise. What made this visit particularly memorable was the blend of natural beauty and rich cultural history, combined with the warmth and hospitality of the locals.

Follow Up Question:

How did this trip change your perspective on history or culture?

Sample Answer:

This trip deepened my appreciation for how history can shape modern culture. In Kyoto, I saw how centuries-old traditions are still practiced in daily life, from the meticulous preparation of tea in tea houses to the respectful mannerisms of the people. It made me realize how cultural heritage is not just something from the past but something alive, influencing how people live today. I came back with a greater respect for preserving history's importance and its role in defining a nation's identity.

DET Writing Sample- Example

Prompt:

Some people believe that students should be required to volunteer in their community to graduate from high school. Do you agree or disagree with this idea? Provide reasons for your opinion.

Sample Answer:

I agree with the idea that students should be required to volunteer in their community to graduate from high school. Volunteering helps the community and teaches students valuable life skills such as teamwork, empathy, and responsibility. Students can develop a stronger sense of civic duty and social awareness by engaging in community service.

Additionally, volunteering allows students to gain real-world experience, which can be beneficial for their future careers. It helps them understand the importance of contributing to society and prepares them to be responsible citizens. For instance, working in a local shelter or organizing community events can build their communication and leadership skills.

However, it is essential that the volunteering requirement remain flexible and accommodate students' interests and schedules. Offering various volunteer options can make the experience more meaningful and enjoyable for students. Overall, making community service a graduation requirement can enrich students' education and personal development.

Prompt:

Technology is playing an increasingly significant role in education. Do you think traditional classrooms will become obsolete in the future? Why or why not?

Sample Answer:

While technology is revolutionizing education, I do not believe traditional classrooms will become obsolete in the future. Although online learning provides flexibility and access to a wide range of resources, traditional classrooms offer unique benefits that cannot be easily replicated in a virtual setting.

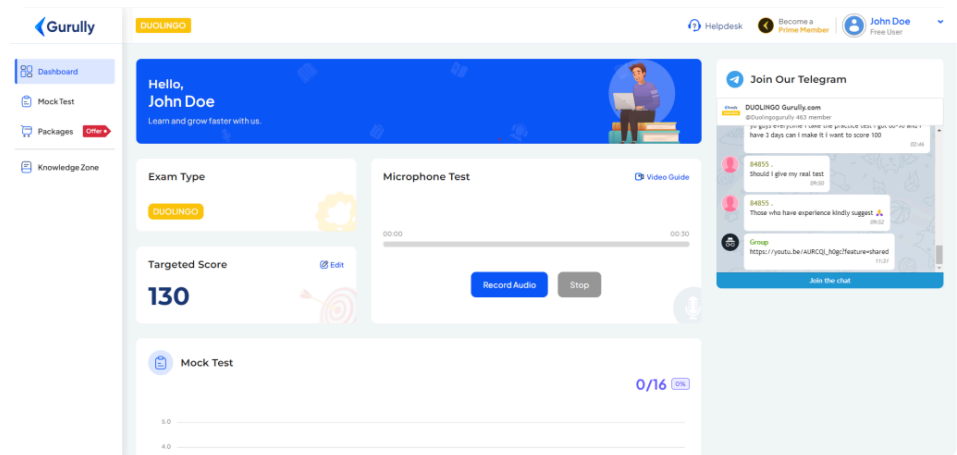

First, in-person learning fosters social interaction and collaboration among students. Group discussions, peer learning, and face-to-face communication help develop essential social skills that are harder to cultivate in a purely digital environment. Traditional classrooms also create a structured learning environment, which can be beneficial for students who need a routine to stay focused.

Second, teachers are critical in guiding students, providing immediate feedback, and adapting to individual learning needs in real-time. This personalized support can sometimes be lacking in online courses, where automated systems often replace the human touch.

While technology can enhance education, especially through tools like virtual labs or educational apps, but traditional classrooms will remain essential. They provide a sense of community and direct engagement that complements the convenience of technology.
